LUDENDORFF IS FREED IN TREASON CASE

German War Lord Held Not Guilty, But Other Leaders Are Found Guilty

HITLER TO PRISON

Leader in Bavarian Revolt Movement Draws Sentence; Police Hold Crowds

Munich, Bavaria, April 1.—(By the A. P.)—General Ludendorff, former German field marshal, was acquitted today of treason for his part in the unsuccessful revolt here last November.

Adolf Hitler and former Chief of Police Koehner were convicted and each was sentenced to five years imprisonment and fined 200 gold marks.

Dr. Weiber and Col. Kriebel, accused of being Hitler's aids, received like sentences.

Dr. Frisch, former president of the Munich district, Captain Roehm, Lieut. Henry Purnet, who is Ludendorff's stepson and Lieut. Bruckner and Lieut. Wagner were given 15 months and fined 100 gold marks each.

The main streets of Munich and all the approaches to the court house presented a picture of an armed camp. Field-helmeted troops and heavy reinforcements of Bavarian street police patrolled the streets, dispersing pedestrians.

An ordinance proclaimed last night by the Prefect threatened participants in riots or mob-gatherings with penitentiary sentences or even capital punishment. These precautions were taken with a view to suppressing hostile demonstrations of followers of the men on trial.

Hitler's followers arranged to signal news of the verdict from the house-tops by wip-wagging as the authorities prohibited public housing of the verdict and severely restricted admission to the court chamber. It became known today that Hitler's nationalistic anti-Semitic party had nominated Ludendorff and Purnet for Reichstag seats.

The trial at Munich occupied more than a month and much of the testimony was taken behind closed doors. A strong feeling in favor of Ludendorff who made no attempt to hide his nationalistic beliefs, marked the trial.

The revolt for which the men were tried has been called the "beer hall" putsch as it was before a gathering of Bavarian government officials in the Burgerbrau cellar that Hitler and his followers suddenly appeared on the night of November 8 and fired shots to obtain silence and dramatically announced the overthrow of the government, proclaiming a dictatorship over the entire country with Hitler at the head of the government and Ludendorff as commander-in-chief of the army. Purnet was to be premier of Bavaria.

The "dictatorial government," however, had no opportunity to try its hand. The Central Government at Berlin refused to take the situation seriously and Dr. von Kahr repudiated his adherence to the movement which he declared was given under compulsion.

After 24 hours of great excitement during which the Hitlerites held the war ministry building, General Von Lossow's Reichswehr were brought into play and Hitler's dauntless lions, which he had patterned after the Italian Fascists, melted away with but brief resistance.

Ludendorff was apprehended immediately while Hitler led the Bavarian authorities a lengthy chase before he was finally captured.

EXPERTS FOR GIVING RUHR TO GERMANY

Dawes Committee and British at Odds on Burden of Taxation on Germans

CITE U. S. EXPERIENCE

Paris, April 1.—(By the A. P.) The reparations experts of the Dawes committee met this afternoon with prospects better than any time this week for a speedy winding up of their work.

Although General Dawes and Owen D. Young, his American associate, have looked their message tentatively for April 22, their assistants and counsellors are planning an earlier departure, probably the end of next week.

The amount of the reparation burden to be laid on the German railroads was expected to be settled this afternoon, with the smoothing out of the differences which have existed between the American and English delegates on this point. The English have complained that the percentage of the loan based on the railroads was excessive while the Americans have argued that it was far less than the burden the railroads in the United States were called on to bear after the Civil War. They have thus far refused to follow the British idea that the taxation standard demanded of the Germans was too high.

Germany paid 10 billion marks in taxes before the war, one of the heaviest tax burdens in the world, and the American experts said to have told his colleagues, "If we fix it any lower, our people, checking up the figures, will upbraid us for letting them off too easily."

The American experts have replied to British fears that expropriation of funds or the payment of reparations would weaken her industry, if pushed by cutting the post-war Civil War in which the country reaped prosperity heights although obliged annually to repay sums to foreign investors in mines, railroads, etc. The Americans likewise opposed the pessimism of some foreign colleagues by drawing another analogy from American history, recalling the aid and credit raised over the first American "million dollar Congress" whereas the Congress is now voting some three billion annually.

Although the foreign experts had a ready retort to these arguments, pointing out that America's natural resources far surpassed Germany's the Americans have held firm, agreeing however that Germany should be allowed to exploit all the resources of her territory in order to clean up her payments. They are self-imposed the acquiescence of American representatives in the contention that the economic exploitation of the Ruhr is returned to Germany, the French to retain military control, a project to which the Echo de Paris takes violent exception.

ATWOOD WILL TALK IN STATE

Harry Atwood of Chicago, author of "Back to the Republic" and other books, will lecture in summer normal schools for teachers in the state, and also speak at a meeting to be held in the summer of the county superintendents' association. He will lecture on civics.

DISTRICT SUES

Otis school district, McLean county, has filed a claim against the state bonding fund for $2,000, the full amount of the bond of L. A. Cowell, former treasurer of the school district, because of money lost in a closed Iowa bank.

HIGH SCHOOLS APPROVED FOR ASSOCIATION

Six additional North Dakota high schools have been admitted to the North Central High School Association, which accredits high schools from which graduates may enter universities and colleges without examination, according to C. E. Preles, state inspector, who with Prof. C. C. Schmidt, attended the association annual meeting in Chicago. P. H. Lehman of Grand Forks is the third member of the association.

The new high schools admitted are Drake, Harvey, Bowbells, Bottineau, St. Thomas, Siles, and they make a total of 67 out of 74 North Dakota high schools in the state which are accredited by the association.

MORE CHARGES MAY BE MADE AT WILLISTON

U. L. Burdick's Action at Williston Against Semingson Being Questioned

Additional charges may grow out of the banking action in Williams county, according to reports, there, which said that U. L. Burdick, who swore out a complaint against Gilbert Semingson, state examiner, after the grand jury had investigated the charges and found them groundless, was preparing to file additional charges against Mr. Semingson.

At the same time reports were in circulation here which indicated that retaliatory measures might be taken against Burdick. He was criticized in some quarters for it is alleged, requesting that he will make a vigorous special prosecutor before any action was taken, a proceeding declared unusual for a lawyer. Edward Sinkler of Minot was the grand jury special prosecutor. C. L. Young of the State Bar Board said that he had heard of no appeals to the State Bar Board to act against Burdick.

State Examiner Semingson would make no further statement today regarding the action against him in connection with the failed Williams county State Bank, but it is understood that he will make a vigorous denial and reply, if not in a public statement, before the justice court in Williston. The hearing on the charge against Semingson, which was set for Wednesday, was postponed until Friday and it probably will be postponed until next week, according to word here.

Secretary of State Thomas Hall, and C. R. Green, manager of the Bank of North Dakota, had not received any subpoenas to bring records.

Some friends of the present state administration assert that an effort is being made to discredit it through the attack on Semingson, and assert that most of the allegations made date back to a time when O. E. LeBlond, newspaperman, was state bank examiner.

VON STROHEIM, MOVIE MAN, IS ASSESSED FINE

Low Angeles, April 1.—Erik Von Stroheim, motion picture director, was fined $50 for contempt of court when he registered rage while testifying in an effort to obtain a reduction in alimony payments to his former wife May Von Stroheim. Interrupted by counsel he flared up with an "I'll smash your face" statement, takes a $50 fine. "Your honor," retorted the attorney, "he is making faces at me and showing his teeth, too."

The court deemed the $50 fine sufficient, however, and the matter ended there.

ALL STOCK OF COUNTRY CLUB TO BE RETIRED

New Corporation to Establish Permanent Building Fund of Organization

MEMBERSHIP LIMITED

All the stock of the Bismarck Country Club was voted transferred to the Bismarck Town and Country Club at the club's annual meeting held last night in the Association of Commerce rooms. The Bismarck Town and Country Club has filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State. The capital stock is placed at $25,000, in 2,500 shares at $10 par value each, and incorporates a plan for the retirement of the stock.

The purpose of the transfer last night was to create a holding company separate from the club operating organization property. The Bismarck Town and Country Club, the holding company, will build up a fund from the sale of stock for the purchase of land, each member subscribing to one share of stock at ten dollars. A certain percentage will be set aside each year.

The actual dues of the Country Club will remain the same. It was decided upon the new corporation method in order to avoid an increase in the dues. The dues, together with the stock subscription, will still be less than one-half the dues of any other Country Club in the Northwest according to officers.

P. J. Meyer, president of the Country Club, presided at the meeting. The financial experience of the club has been under Mr. Meyer and E. A. Thorberg, secretary, was exceptionally good, more than $1,600 of debt being retired.

The membership of the Country Club stands at 100 and it has been voted that new members will be admitted only as old members drop out, the membership being as large as the facilities of the club warrant.

The annual business meeting of the club proper was postponed, and will be held at a later date, probably this month, at the Country Club, when a dance will be given.

The new method of organization was arrived at by business men on the club's board of directors after considerable study, and experience of the plan. They believe the method assures Bismarck of a permanent Country Club on a more reasonable basis than may be found anywhere in a city of this size. No change in facilities will be made this year.

Schafer, director of the Junior Red Cross, who formerly was a state high school inspector and school superintendent at Carrington, has informed North Dakota friends that on April 4, between 7 and 7:30 p. m., central time, there will be broadcast from station WMAQ (Chicago) a Junior Red Cross program. CASE HALTED BY DAUGHERTY, WITNESS SAYS

INVOLVED INDIAN LAND

Claims That Department of Justice Kept the Case From Going Ahead

Washington, April 1.—(By the A. P.)—Harry M. Daugherty's part in stopping trial of the "Miller Brothers" Indian land fraud case in Oklahoma in the spring of 1921 was described today to the Senate Daugherty investigating committee by H. M. Peck, former United States Attorney of the western Oklahoma district.

The case involved 10,000 acres valued at $50 an acre, Peck said. When it was ready for trial at Guthrie in May 1921, he added, a "personal" letter from Attorney-General Daugherty directed that a continuance be taken until the fall term of court.

Peck described a request for his resignation received from Daugherty in September, 1921, and his subsequent reappointment as special prosecutor for the government. He referred the committee to Senator Harrell of Oklahoma as to the reasons for this reemployment.

Peck explained that the case referred to was instituted against George L. Miller and four associates charged with defrauding Oklahoma Indians out of land. Indictments had been returned against the Miller brothers in 1920 and they were charged with an organization to get the land away from Indians as soon as possible. The Department of the Interior gave each tribesman his allotment.

In the criminal cases they entered in place of guilty and were fined, the Department of Justice specifically directing that course to be taken the witness said, but he added that no civil actions to recover the land had been inaugurated and that the Miller brothers still had them.

Peck said that in four years experience as United States Attorney he had never known of another case in which the Attorney-General took such personal interest. Acceptance of the guilty pleas in the criminal cases was decided upon, the witness said, despite his recommendation that "penitentiary sentences" be demanded.

The committee indicated it would get from files of the Department of Justice and the United States Attorney's office in Oklahoma copies of the letters and messages in this case bearing Daugherty's signature.

NEW LIGNITE FIRE RAGES

Mine Inspector to Investigate Fire Near Beulah

J. P. Mellon, state mine inspector, has gone to Beulah on report that there is a fire in the R. G. Stubbins mine south of there. Information concerning the extent of the fire was lacking at the mine inspector's office, he going there after receiving word from the United States Bureau that a call had been made for the mine rescue car without giving information as to the extent of the fire.

Other reports said that the tipples and engine house were destroyed, and that fanned by a heavy wind the flames ignited the coal in several entries which had been opened. Strong efforts were being made to check flames, it was reported.

W. S. Stratton, consulting engineer of the state mine inspector's office, today went to Haynes, North Dakota, where a coal mine fire has been raging for weeks. The mine is being virtually cut into sections and the sections sealed to smother the fire which still rages, he said.

FIRE BUG IS ACTIVE AGAIN

Golden Valley, N. D., April 1.—A fire-bug sought by local officials and citizens for an attempt to burn a two-story frame building used as a garage here a month ago, has made a second futile attempt to fire the same building in the same manner and the state fire marshal has been asked to conduct an investigation which is beyond the ability of local sleuths to solve. Old automobile castings filled with oil and placed in a outside hallway on the second floor were fired but the blaze was soon immediately afterwards though no sign of the incendiary could be found. The fire was extinguished. Golden Valley during the last year has had three disastrous fires in which at least eight buildings have been destroyed with a total loss well over $30,000.

1923 TAX CUT IS APPROVED IN COMMITTEE

Senate Finance Committee Takes Action to Lower the Last Year's Income Tax

OTHER CHANGES MADE

Increase in Corporation Tax Is Voted by the Senate Republican Committee

Washington, April 1.—The provision in the revenue bill for a 25 percent reduction on income taxes payable this year was approved unanimously last night by the senate finance committee.

This action was taken after a day in which the pruning knife had been used vigorously when the rate schedules were taken up. Other action at the night session included modification of the corporation tax, insertion of a provision to prevent issuance hereafter of tax-exempt securities, and rejection of a sales tax proposal.

It was agreed to increase the corporation tax 12 1/2 percent to 14 percent and eliminate the special tax on capital stock amounting to $1, for each $1,000 of stock.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who proposed the action, said it would make no material change in the amount of revenue collected from the source, but that present administrative difficulties would be lessened by elimination of the capital stock tax. The vote on the motion was 5 to 4.

Senator Reed also proposed the amendment, which was carried by a similar vote, to make taxable the income from state and municipal securities hereafter issued. Opponents argued such action unconstitutional and would have to be brought about by a constitutional amendment. Such an amendment was defeated this session by the house, which also rejected a proposal such as was adopted last night.

Approval of the reduction in income taxes, payable this year means that, if the bill is enacted into law, only one half of the next tax installment, due June 15, and only three-fourths of the last two installments will have to be paid. If the tax has been paid in full, a refund of one-fourth will be made the taxpayer.

The house amendment opening tax returns to inspection by certain congressional committees, also was modified somewhat. It was agreed to make the returns open to the house and means committee and the senate finance committee, as approved by the house, but the house provision giving the privilege to special congressional committees was changed to include only standing or select committees of either house of congress when authorized by a resolution. This is along the lines recently suggested by President Coolidge.

Sales Tax Defeated
Chairman Smoot's proposal of a sales tax of one half of one percent on all sales, with certain exemptions, was defeated by a strict party vote of 6 to 4. Some Republicans did not vote while the Democrats solidly opposed it.

Democrats of the committee agreed on a surtax rate schedule which they will propose as a substitute for the Mellon rates already voted into the bill by the Republicans.

With a report on the bill in sight this week, the committee will make further study of estimates as to cost of the soldier bonus bill passed by the house. Republicans of the committee have expressed a desire that the bonus bill be reported out first and a decision on this is expected to be made immediately on completion of the study of estimates.

It was arranged that Mr. Sinclair should be allowed to have his plea immediately upon his arrival here. J. W. Zeevis, Sinclair's attorney, said he was unable to say whether his client would come to Washington, to lay out his defense.

Democrats of the committee agreed on a surtax rate schedule which they will propose as a substitute for the Mellon rates already voted into the bill by the Republicans.

With a report on the bill in sight this week, the committee will make further study of estimates as to cost of the soldier bonus bill passed by the house. Republicans of the committee have expressed a desire that the bonus bill be reported out first and a decision on this is expected to be made immediately on completion of the study of estimates.

SECRETARY OF INTERIOR JOB BEING SOUGHT?

Committee Prosecutor Says He Wants to Know if "Compensation Man" Sought

HAMON STORY DENIED

Manager of His Campaign Declares Al Jennings Lied on Witness Stand

Washington, April 1.—(By the A. P.)—The political activity of the late Jake Hamon, Republican national committee man from Oklahoma, came under scrutiny before the oil committee today again in an avowed effort by Senator Walsh, the committee prosecutor, to establish a conspiracy as far back as 1920, to select a "compensation" Secretary of the Interior.

Under the Montana Senator's instant questioning J. E. Dyche, who managed Hamon's campaign for the place in the national committee, testified that the first had cost Hamon $105,000 and insisted that he never desired to have a place in the Cabinet.

The witness ridiculed Al Jennings' testimony that Hamon had told him of large money payments to the late Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania and others to secure the nomination of Warren G. Harding and of Indiana for use of money among the members of the Oklahoma delegation at the Chicago convention.

J. H. Wilson, former Oklahoma superintendent of public instruction, also was questioned. He said Hamon had "boasted" to him of putting over Harding's nomination and had told him of contributing $25,000 to Harry M. Daugherty, the Harding pre-convention manager, for campaign expenses.

Washington, April 1.—Resuming his inquiry into the story of an oil deal at the Chicago Republican convention of 1920 the oil committee today was told by R. H. Wilson, former superintendent of public instruction in Oklahoma, of a "boast" by Jake Hamon, the oil promoter, who is serving as that state's Republican national committee man, that he had "put over" the nomination of W. G. Harding. Hamon was quoted as saying he had given $25,000 to Harry M. Daugherty for the Harding campaign. In the early days of the campaign, the witness said, Hamon had appeared friendly to the candidacy of Leohard Wood. Wilson said under questioning that Hamon had made no reference in his talk to him of naval oil leases.

J. E. Dyche, who identified himself as a prohibition agent with headquarters at Oklahoma City, followed Wilson in the witness chair. He said he had acted as manager of Harding. Hamon was quoted as saying he had given $25,000 to Harry M. Daugherty for the Harding campaign. In the early days of the campaign, the witness said, Hamon had appeared friendly to the candidacy of Leohard Wood. Wilson said under questioning that Hamon had made no reference in his talk to him of naval oil leases.

Dyche declared he was with Hamon in Chicago and went home with him and "he didn't even buy me a drink."

State Examiner Semingson would make no further statement today regarding the action against him in connection with the failed Williams County State Bank, but it is understood that he will make a vigorous denial and reply, if not in a public statement, before the justice court in Williston. The hearing on the charge against Semingson, which was set for Wednesday, was postponed until Friday and it probably will be postponed until next week, according to word here.

Secretary of State Thomas Hall, and C. R. Green, manager of the Bank of North Dakota, had not received any subpoenas to bring records.

Some friends of the present state administration assert that an effort is being made to discredit it through the attack on Semingson, and assert that most of the allegations made date back to a time when O. E. Loftus, Nonpartisan, was state bank examiner.

VON STROHEIM, MOVIE MAN, IS ASSESSED FINE

Los Angeles, picture director, was fined $50 for contempt of court when he registered, rage while testifying in an effort to obtain a reduction in alimony payments to his former wife, May Von Stroheim. Interrupted by counsel he flared up with an "I'll smash your face." His honor flared up with "That statement takes a $50 fine." "Your honor," returned the attorney, "he is making faces at me and showing his teeth, too." The court deemed the $50 fine sufficient, however, and the matter ended there.

ALL STOCK OF COUNTRY CLUB TO BE RETIRED

New Corporation to Establish Permanent Building Fund of Organization

MEMBERSHIP LIMITED

All the stock of the Bismarck Country Club was voted transferred to the Bismarck Town and Country Club at the club's annual meeting held last night in the Association of Commerce rooms. The Bismarck Town and Country Club has filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State. The capital stock is placed at $25,000, in 2,500 shares at $10 par value each, and incorporators are C. B. Little, F. L. Conklin, P. J. Meyer and E. B. Cox.

The purpose of the transfer last night was to create a holding company separate from the club operating organization property. The Bismarck Town and Country Club, the holding company, will build up a fund from the sale of stock for the purchase of land, each member subscribing to one share of stock at ten dollars. A certain percentage will be set aside each year.

The actual dues of the Country Club will remain the same. It was decided upon the new corporation method in order to avoid an increase in the dues. The dues, together with the stock subscription, will still be less than one-half the dues of any other Country Club in the North-west according to officers.

P. J. Meyer, president of the Country Club, presided at the meeting. The financial experience of the club last year under Mr. Meyer and E. A. Thorberg, secretary, was exceptionally good, more than $1,600 of debts being retired.

The membership of the Country Club stands at 230, and it has been voted that new members will be admitted only as old members drop out, the membership being as large as the facilities of the club warrant.

The annual business meeting of the club proper was postponed, and will be held at a later date, probably this month, at the Country Club, when a dance will be given.

The new method of organization was arrived at by business men on the club's board of directors after considerable study, and experience of the past. They believe that the method insures Bismarck of a permanent Country Club on a more reasonable basis than may be found anywhere in a city of this size. No change in facilities will be made this year.

CASE HALTED BY DAUGHERTY, WITNESS SAYS

Former District Attorney in Oklahoma Testifies Before Investigators

INVOLVED INDIAN LAND

Claims That Department of Justice Kept the Case From Going Ahead

Washington, April 1.—(By the A. P.)—Harry M. Daugherty's part in stopping trial of the "Miller Brothers" Indian land fraud case in Oklahoma in the spring of 1921 was described today to the Senate Daugherty investigating committee by H. M. Peck, former United States Attorney of the western Oklahoma district.

The case involved 10,000 acres valued at $50 an acre, Peck said. When it was ready for trial at Guthrie in May 1921, he added, a "personal" letter from Attorney-General Daugherty directed that a continuance be taken until the fall term of court.

Peck described a request for his resignation received from Daugherty in September, 1921, and his subsequent reappointment as special prosecutor for the government. He referred the committee to Senator Harrell of Oklahoma as to the reasons for this reemployment.

Peck explained that the case referred to was instituted against George L. Miller and four associates charged with defrauding Oklahoma Indians out of land. Indictments had been returned against the Miller brothers in 1920 and they were charged with an organization to get the land away from Indians as soon as Department of the Interior gave each tribesman his allotment.

In the criminal cases they entered in pleas of guilty and were fined, the Department of Justice specifically directing that course to be taken. The witness said, but he added that no civil actions to recover the land had been instituted against the Miller brothers still had them.

Peck said that in four years experience as United States Attorney he had never known of another case in which the Attorney-General took such personal interest. Acceptance of the guilty pleas in the criminal cases was decided upon, the witness said, despite his recommendation that "penitentiary sentences" be demanded.

The committee indicated it would get from files of the Department of Justice and the United States Attorney's office in Oklahoma copies of the letters and messages in this case bearing Daugherty's signature.

NEW LIGNITE FIRE RAGES

Mine Inspector to Investigate Fire Near Beulah

J. P. Mellon, state mine inspector, has gone to Beulah on report that there is a fire in the R. G. Stuhler lignite mine south of there. Information concerning the extent of the fire was lacking at the mine inspector's office, he going there after receiving word from the United States Bureau that a call had been made for the mine rescue car without giving information as to the extent of the fire.

Other reports said that the tipples and engine house were destroyed, and that fanned by a heavy wind the flames ignited the coal in several entries which had been opened. Strong efforts were being made to check flames, it was reported.

W. S. Stratton, consulting engineer of the state mine inspector's office, today went to Haynes, North Dakota, where a coal mine fire has been raging for weeks. The mine is being virtually cut into sections and the sections sealed to smother the fire which still rages, he said.

FIRE BUG IS ACTIVE AGAIN

Golden Valley, N. D., April 1.—A fire-bug sought by local officials and citizens for an attempt to burn a two story frame building used as a garage here a month ago, has made a second futile attempt to fire the same building in the same manner and the state fire marshal has been asked to conduct an investigation which is beyond the ability of local sleuths to solve. Old automobile casings filled with oil and placed in a outside hallway on the second floor were fired but the blaze was seen immediately afterwards though no sign of the incendiary could be found. The fire was extinguished. Golden valley during the last year has had three disastrous fires in which at least eight buildings have been destroyed with a total loss well over $30,000.

1923 TAX CUT IS APPROVED IN COMMITTEE

Senate Finance Committee Takes Action to Lower the Last Year's Income Tax

OTHER CHANGES MADE

Increase in Corporation Tax Is Voted by the Senate Republican Committee

Washington, April 1.—The provision in the revenue bill for a 25 percent reduction on income taxes payable this year was approved unanimously last night by the senate finance committee.

This action was taken after a day in which the pruning knife had been used vigorously when the rate schedules were taken up. Other action at the night session included modification of the corporation tax, insertion of a provision to prevent issuance hereafter of tax-exempt securities, and rejection of a sales tax proposal.

Increase Tax

It was agreed to increase the corporation tax 12 1/2 percent to 14 percent and eliminate the special tax on capital stock amounting to $1, for each $1,000 of stock.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who proposed the action, said it would make no material change in the amount of revenue collected from the source, but that present administrative difficulties would be lessened by elimination of the capital stock tax. The vote on the motion was 5 to 4.

Senator Reed also proposed the amendment, which was carried by a similar vote, to make taxable the income from state and municipal securities hereafter issued. Opponents argued such action unconstitutional and would have to be brought about by a constitutional amendment. Such an amendment was defeated this session by the house, which also rejected a proposal such as was adopted last night.

To Make Returns

Approval of the reduction in income taxes, payable this year means that, if the bill is enacted into law, only one half of the next tax installment, due June 15, and only three-fourths of the last two installments will have to be paid. If the tax has been paid in full, a refund of one fourth will be made the taxpayer.

The house amendment opening tax returns to inspection by certain congressional committees, also was modified somewhat. It was agreed to make the returns open to the house ways and means committee and the senate finance committee, as approved by the house, but the house provision giving the senate to special congressional committees was changed to include only standing or select committees of either house of congress when authorized by a resolution. This is along the lines recently suggested by President Coolidge.

Sales Tax Defeated

Chairman Smoot's proposal of a sales tax of one half of one percent on all sales, with certain exemptions, was defeated by a strict party vote of 6 to 4. Some Republicans did not vote while the Democrats solidly opposed it.

Democrats of the committee agreed on a surtax rate schedule which they will propose as a substitute for the Mellon rates already voted into the bill by the Republicans.

With a report on the bill in sight this week, the committee will make further study of estimates as to cost of the soldier bonus bill passed by the house. Republicans of the committee have expressed a desire that the bonus bill be reported out first and a decision on this is expected to be made immediately on completion of the study of estimates.

AUTO CRASH PROVES FATAL

Wilton Miner Succumbs To Injuries Sustained

Wilton, N. D., April 1.—Nick Olekew, about 35, employed at the Washburn Lignite Coal Company mine and living at Chapin, the mining village, is dead from an automobile accident which happened late Sunday on the new road from Wilton to the mine. Olekew had been visiting with his wife, and the two and Mrs. Fred Omfrace went out for a ride. Presumably he was going too fast on the road when the auto jumped into a ditch. He was injured internally and died early yesterday morning. The wife and Mrs. Omfrace were shaken up but not badly injured. Olekew is survived by a wife and one child. Funeral services were held today.

Order in Light

The city commission in meeting last night, passed bills and ordered in a street light at the corner of Rosser and Anderson, there being no other business of importance before the body.

BANDIT SAID ONCE HERE IS SENT TO PRISON

"The toughest guy that ever came through our cells." That's the way Chicago detectives sum up Harry C. Thomas, 41, described as "the greatest single-handed burglar in the business." Thomas has confessed to 250 burglaries and robberies, 18 attacks upon women, one murder and sundry other felonies and other misdemeanors. Thomas "got religion" and walked into the detective bureau and made a clean breast of everything.

Chicago, April 1.—Seventy-five years in the Joliet penitentiary was the sentence imposed on Harry C. Thomas, "champion crime confessor," by Chief Justice Caverly in the criminal court today on a charge of criminal attack. Thomas had confessed to 250 crimes including murder.

Thomas is reported to have spent time in the state penitentiary here for a Bismarck burglary many years ago.

SINCLAIR TO GIVE SELF UP

Oil Magnate, Indicted For Contempt, To Go To Washington

Washington, April 1.—District Attorney Peyton Gordon was notified today that Harry Sinclair would come to Washington late today from New York to furnish bond for $5,000 to answer when he is called for trial on a charge of contempt growing out of his refusal to answer questions of the senate oil committee.

It was arranged that Mr. Sinclair should be allowed to make his plea immediately upon his arrival here. J. W. Zevely, Sinclair's attorney, said he was unable to say whether his client would come to Washington today.

CONTRACT IS NOT YET LET

Board of Administration Considers Mandan Building

The state board of administration expects to settle contracts for installing mechanical equipment and electrical wiring in the proposed new boys' dormitory at the Mandan training school this afternoon, and has under consideration alternate bids of the three lowest of the general contract, Charles Kidd, Mandan, Red-inger and Hanson, Wahpeton; and C. H. Johnson and Company, Fargo.

Because the first bids exceeded the appropriation of $60,000, new bids were called for.

Chairman R. B. Murphy of the state board said the board was adhering strictly to the policy of refusing to consider letting contracts where there is any possibility of the total amount exceeding the specific amount appropriated by the legislature.

GIRL TO BE GIVEN AID

Dickinson, N. D., April 1.—Hattie Merritt, who leaped from a Northern Pacific passenger train last week, will be given treatment in an N. P. hospital, it is understood. She is believed to have jumped from the train while in a nervous state. It was pointed out here that she probably did not jump because a man frightened her, as she had put on clothes over her night-gown before leaping.

SECRETARY OF INTERIOR JOB BEING SOUGHT?

Committee Prosecutor Says He Wants to Know if "Compensation Man" Sought

HAMON STORY DENIED

Washington, April 1.—(By the A. P.)—The political activity of the late Jake Hamon, Republican national committeeman from Oklahoma, came under scrutiny before the oil committee today again in an avowed effort by Senator Walsh, the committee prosecutor, to establish a conspiracy as far back as 1920, to select a "compensation" Secretary of the Interior.

Under the Montana Senator's insistent questioning J. E. Dyche, who managed Hamon's campaign for the place on the national committee, testified that the first bid cost Hamon $105,000 but insisted that he never desired to have a place in the cabinet.

The witness ridiculed Al Jennings' testimony that Hamon had told him of large money payments to the late Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania and others, to secure the nomination of Warren G. Harding, and of indiscriminate use of money among the members of the Oklahoma delegation at the Chicago convention.

R. H. Wilson, former Oklahoma superintendent of public instruction, also was questioned. He said Hamon had "suggested" to him of putting over Harding's nomination and had told him of contributing $25,000 to Harry M. Daugherty, the Harding pre-convention manager, for campaign expenses.

Washington, April 1.—Resuming its inquiry into the story of an oil deal at the Chicago Republican convention of 1920 the oil committee today was told by R. H. Wilson, former superintendent of public instruction in Oklahoma, of a "hoax" by Jake Hamon, the oil operator, who is serving as that state's Republican national committeeman, that he had "put over" the nomination of W. G. Harding.

Hamon was quoted as saying he had given $25,000 to Harry M. Daugherty for the Harding campaign fund. In the early days of the campaign, the witness said, Hamon had appeared friendly to the candidacy of Leonard Wood. Wilson said under questioning that Hamon had made no reference in his talk to him of naval oil leases.

J. E. Dyche, who identified himself as a prohibition agent with headquarters at Oklahoma City, followed Wilson in the witness chair. He said he had acted as manager of Harding's Hamon was quoted as saying as Republican national committeeman.

"Nothing to it," Dyche said, when asked about Al Jennings' testimony that Hamon told him he had given $250,000 to the late Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania; $25,000 to Will Hays and $25,000 to Daugherty to bring about Harding's nomination. Asked about Jennings' testimony that Hamon told him he spent money indiscriminately with the Oklahoma delegation the witness said, "If Jennings said that he lied. There wasn't a dime spent on that delegation."

Dyche declared he was with Hamon in Chicago and went home with him and "he didn't even buy me a dinner."

MASONS HONOR PAST MASTERS OF LODGE HERE

Over 200 Gather at Annual Reunion Banquet Held in The Masonic Temple

MANY VISITORS PRESENT

Two hundred and fifteen Masons from Bismarck, Mandan and other places joined last night in celebration of the annual home-coming and Past Masters' night of Bismarck lodge No. 5. The tables in the Temple dining room could not accommodate all of the crowd.

The after-dinner program, under the direction of F. J. Grady, head of the lodge, was unusual and convulsed the banqueters with laughter a good part of the time. After the banquet, the hall was darkened and pictures of all the Past Masters of the lodge now residing in Bismarck were thrown on a screen by use of a stereoptical machine.

Following this Mr. Grady announced he would call upon all the Past Masters, and as he called upon G. N. Keniston jumped up and began speaking as Mr. Lundquist. This continued with G. Olafson, whose speech was the hit of the evening, impersonating Judge W. S. Caselman; E. M. Cray speaking as H. L. Reade; S. E. Dehl as William O'Hara; C. L. Robertson as Theodore Koffel; L. S. Caswell as John A. Graham; O. W. Roberts as L. K. Thompson; W. S. Caselman as G. E. Dullam; A. S. Bolster as Ray Bergeson; and George Russ as R. W. Lumry.

At intervals the Mandan Masons, quartet composed of Geo. H. Wilson, R. R. Lutz, W. C. Tostevin and A. H. Peterson sang. Rev. S. F. Halfyard called the roll of Past Masters, and following this a rising vote of thanks was given to the Eastern Star for preparing the banquet.

The last year's class of Masons, with Adolph Schlenker making the presentation speech, gave O. Lundquist a beautiful Masonic ring.

The candidates raised to the Master Mason degree were E. J. Budge, W. Knudson, W. F. Gettleman, P. H. Weber and Thurman Wright.

The Past Masters roll of the lodge, many of whom are deceased, follows:

- C. A. Lounsberry, 1870; W. M. Palmer, 1877; John Davidson, 1878; Joseph Hare, 1879-80; John Davidson, 1881-83; Orlando S. Goff, 1884; Frank Bonnelly, 1885; Joseph Hare, 1886-87; Harry V. DAKOTAN IS INVENTOR OF RADIO DEVICE

Grand Forks, N. D., April 1.—Dr. J. B. Johnson formerly of Velva, N. D. and now with the Western Electric Laboratories has just invented a device by which he is able to photograph radio currents. A. F. Yoder of the University of North Dakota Extension department has announced.

By means of a large pear-shaped glass bulb, exhausted of air filled with gas called Argon with a heated filament at the small end of the bulb, there are generated electrons, which on escaping, strike the opposite end of the bulb coated with fluorescent material which reflects electrons in such a way as to produce a faint light, tracing a delicate pat-

Alaska Generous With Its Beauty

Alaska doesn't keep all of its beauty at home. Dorothy Haley, for instance, has been sent out to tell about the other beauties of her homeland. Chosen as the new tourist agent for the government's Alaskan railroad, Miss Haley is going to tell the world that Alaska is not the barren icy stretch so many picture.

On the screen in front of the operator, Mr. Yoder explained. This device, he said, enables the operator to control the modulation of the radio current, something radio engineers have been unable to do heretofore.

The invention is expected to aid greatly in the modulation of tone at the present time, Mr. Yoder said, certain kinds of instrumental music go well, while others do not. Sudden changes from voice to instrumental music, loud to soft tones etc., produce unpleasant results.

Mr. Johnson took his A. B. degree in the University of North Dakota in 1913 and his M. S. degree in 1914. He went from the university directly to the Western Electric Laboratories.

ASKS AID FOR PRISONERS IN LIFE'S BATTLE

Major Halpin of Salvation Army. Here Today. Says Attitude of U. S. Cosily

TELLS OF METHODS

"The great American spirit of fair play, which in its ultra-fairness demands an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, annually is costing this nation many thousands of dollars and is confirming each year thousands of new criminals," declared Major William Halpin, national prison secretary of the Salvation Army, who arrived here today. Major Halpin will speak at a public meeting at the Salvation Army canteen at 8 o'clock tonight. He is accompanied by Staff Captain Hickman of Minneapolis.

"Tremendous strides have been made in recent years in institutional administration," he continued, "Minnesota in particular in this respect stands near the front."

"Despite all that has been done more criminals are produced each year in penal institutions than in the slum districts of the big cities—the so-called underworld. They are produced in spite of, not as a result of, the constant vigilance of institutional forces."

"Young men, young women, children are seldom criminals when sentenced—they are just unfortunate who chance to slip, and were caught. And who is there among us who never has slipped? They are unfortunate, needing friendly advice and counsel and help and the guardianship of the morally and physically strong rather than the drab uniforms of the reformatory, the pick and shovel of the workhouse or the steel bars of a prison cell."

Where Army Aids
It is here the Salvation Army, co-operating with and aided by prison authorities, begins its prison work. It is here its officers endeavor to counteract the evil influences of those with whom every jail inmate must daily come in contact. It is here that prisoner regeneration begins.

"During the year ended September 30, 1923, nearly 1,000,000 men and women attended Salvation Army prison meetings. Many of these were hardened criminals, but many were beginners in the greatest school of crime the world ever has known. More than 73,000 of these were prayed with and advised and 10,500 acknowledged their God and before their release from prison promised to forsake their ways and companions and to lead lives of honesty and worth."

Made Worth While
"They are worth-while citizens, strengthened rather than weakened by their past."

"During the year 604 individuals were paroled to the Salvation Army—given the chance to learn the right from the wrong and to act accordingly. It is needless to say that this group led a scattered far and wide throughout the country, is 'making good'."

"We Americans should not insist upon our pound of flesh. It is the most expensive way of creating a situation which admittedly is serious and the results of the 'cure' often are more serious than the original disease."

DOHENY FIRST EARNED FIFTY CENTS A DAY

Oil Magnate Tells Story of His Colorful Life and Rise To Great Fortune

This is the first chapter of "How I Made My Millions," the life story of E. L. Doheny, millionaire and leading figure in the Senate oil investigation.

By E. L. Doheny

(Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

To be a Doheny is to be used to trouble.

It has been that way for generations. My grandfather, Michael Doheny, was embroiled in the Irish Revolution of '48. My father, Patrick Doheny, became a political refugee.

And now I find myself facing trouble of another kind. But I shall get out of it just as honorably as did they.

My dad was only 16 when he was forced to flee. He went to Canada and became a seal fisher in Raffen's Bay. It was arduous work, but my father stuck to it for ten years.

After his marriage to a St. Johns school teacher, he went to Wisconsin.

He lost an eye, suffered other injuries, and had to settle down to peaceful gardening.

He was born in 1856 at Fond du Lac, a small town in those days. There were several children in the family, but there is only one left now.

When I heard that my brother's year and a half son, was to go to school I wanted to go, too. At that time were some objections, but then my father said I could learn to talk there, if I nothing else—and, at any rate, I would be out of the way at home.

So they let me go, although I was only three years and four months old.

"Red Squirrel" the teacher called me, for I was a little shaver with a curl top, and kept hopping around most of the time.

The teachers and I was poetically inclined, had a good memory, was good at mathematics, but poor at chemistry—although a knowledge of the last became of the greatest importance in my later work.

After school hours I always found something to do. My dad saw to that.

I got a job in a saw mill during the summer vacation when I was 13. My special work was running a knot saw, for which service I got 65 cents a day and a seat on my right hand. Only a bit of luck prevented me from losing several fingers.

I surely was proud of my injury. I put me in the class, with the other boys of the town who had been hurt in their work—and there were many of them.

The next summer one of the first sugar beet factories in America was opened at Fond du Lac. I got a job in the fields. The man in charge was like a real overseer, for he drove us boys like so many slaves, down the long rows of beets we went, 50 or 60 in a line, working out hoes weeding. We had to work quickly, or else the lads behind would close in and prod us with their hoes.

For all this each of us received 50 cents a day.

But life was too pleasant to let a hard-driving overseer spoil it. We were all veritable Huck Finns—swimming, fishing, getting into mischief. When we had a fence to paint, we invariably connived to make the other fellow do it.

Hardly a month went by during the summer months without some boy drowning. The water was deep, and the floating logs made it treacherous. But that made the sport more alluring.

Louis Pelletier was my side-kick in these days. I don't know what happened to him later, for soon came a parting of the ways.

I had a dream of going west!

(In the next article Doheny will tell how he spurned a career as a priest to go west.)

DIFFICULT TO SHAVE IN AIRPLANE

Manila, April 1.—The difficulties of shaving in an airplane while flying more than 10,000 feet above the earth were experienced recently by Major A. S. Fletcher of the Philippine Scouts. Three United States army airplanes which had been sent to Zamboanga to take part in the annual carnival were about to take off for Manila when Major Fletcher decided to make the trip. He needed a razor badly. There was no time for it in his quarters so he took his shaving outfit with him.

Using water from his canteen he made his father and when he was ready to apply it the airplane had ascended so high that the latter faded from his face in the gale as fast as it was put on. However, Major Fletcher persevered and when he arrived at Manila showed evidence of having had a fairly good shave.

WASHINGTON LIQUOR RING IS INDICTED

Three Deputy U. S. Marshals Are Among Those Indicted By Grand Jury

Washington, April 1.—Washington federal grand jury struck out sharply at liquor law violations in the capital—a question which recently has become increasingly embarrassing to officials endeavoring to enforce the prohibition statutes. The grand jurors handed down a block of indictments which included:

- Three deputy United States marshals.
- A lieutenant of police.
- A Washington terminal policeman.
- A sergeant of marines.
- Two negro Pullman porters.
- A high priced caterer and his wife, with their waiters and helpers.
- Three other men and 14 women, classified for miscellaneous liquor violations.

List Disappears
Three alleged leaders in Washington's famous liquor ring, whose list of high personages as customers mysteriously disappeared several months ago.

Three young women stenographers of the ring.
Patrick H. Barteman, Charles Marshall and John G. Numan are the deputies involved, and with police lieutenant J. L. Sprinkle, they are charged with conspiring to have liquor brought here from the south by Pullman porters.
Benjamin Morris, Milton Scarborough and H. Curtis Lamson are those indicted in connection with the alleged "ring" disclosures. The caterer, William H. Simpson, is claimed, received orders to furnish "wet goods" at various social functions.

WHY BANKS?

LESSON VI

By J. H. PUELICHER, Chairman Committee on Public Education, American Bankers Association

We hear of bank capital, surplus and stockholders. What economic services do they render the community?

BANK CAPITAL—The money necessary to engage in the business of rendering banking services to the community.
SURPLUS—A part of a bank's earnings not paid out as dividends to stockholders but reserved for possible losses or to expand activities as needed by growing business.
CAPITAL AND SURPLUS—Protection to depositors, because if trouble arises depositors must be paid in full out of these funds if necessary before stockholders are paid anything.
BANK STOCKHOLDER—Anyone able and willing to buy stock in a bank and to assume the risk of the business. A share of stock represents a fraction of ownership in the whole, and with ownership go responsibilities and liabilities. In smaller communities those who usually organize banks interest successful farmers, successful merchants and successful manufacturers because of the influence they bring.

DOUBLE LIABILITY—The obligation under the law that rests on a bank stockholder, in case his bank fails and the assets are not enough to pay depositors, to pay an amount equal to his bank stock, in addition to losing his original investment. This is not the case in corporations other than banks. Example: If a man owned $1,000 in bank stock and the bank failed, and after the assets had been used, the bank still owed money to depositors, the stockholders would be required to pay up to another $1,000 if necessary to meet the obligations to stockholders.
Thus it is seen that bank capital and bank stockholders perform real economic services.

MASONS HONOR PAST MASTERS OF LODGE HERE

Over 200 Gather at Annual Reunion Banquet Held in The Masonic Temple

MANY VISITORS PRESENT

Two hundred and fifteen Masons from Bismarck, Mandan and other places joined last night in celebration of the annual home-coming and Past Masters' night of Bismarck lodge No. 5. The tables in the Temple dining room could not accommodate all of the crowd.

The after-dinner program, under the direction of F. J. Grady, head of the lodge, was unusual and convulsed the banqueters with laughter. A good part of the time, after the banquet, the hall was darkened and pictures of all the Past Masters of the lodge now residing in Bismarck were thrown on a screen by use of a stereopticon machine.

Following this Mr. Grady announced he would call upon all the Past Masters, and as he called, upon O. Lundquist, the last Past Master, G. N. Keniston jumped up and began speaking as Mr. Lundquist. This continued with G. Olgerson, whose speech was the hit of the evening, impersonating Judge W. S. Casselman; E. M. Cray speaking as H. L. Reade, S. E. Diehl as William O'Hara, C. L. Robertson as Theodore Koffel, L. S. Cravell as John A. Graham, O. W. Roberts as L. K. Thompson, W. S. Casselman as G. F. Dullam, A. S. Bolster as Ray Bergeson, and George Russ as R. W. Lumry.

At intervals the Mandan Masonic quartet composed of Geo. H. Wilson, R. R. Lutz, W. C. Westervelt and A. H. Peterson sang. Rev. S. F. Halfgard called the roll of Past Masters not living in Bismarck. A rising vote of thanks was given to the Eastern Star for preparing the banquet.

The last year's class of Masons, with Adolph Schenker making the presentation speech, gave O. Lundquist a beautiful Masonic ring.

The candidates raised to the Master Mason degree were E. J. Budge, W. Knudson, W. F. Gettelmann, P. H. Weber and Thurman Wright.

The Past Masters roll of the lodge, many of whom are deceased, follows:

DAKOTAN IS INVENTOR OF RADIO DEVICE

Grand Forks, N. D., April 1.—Dr. J. B. Johnson formerly of Velva, N. D., and now with the Western Electric Laboratories has just invented a device by which he is able to photograph radio currents. A. F. Yoder of the University of North Dakota Extension department has announced.

By means of a large pear-shaped glass bulb, exhausted of air filled with gas called Argon with a heated filament at the small end of the bulb, there are generated electros, which on escaping, strike the opposite end of the bulb coated with fluo-orescent material which reflects electrons in such a way as to produce a faint light, tracing a delicate pat-

And I have on several occasions taken Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and the 'Golden Medical Discovery' when run down, weak or nervous and have never once been disappointed, for they have restored me to perfect health and strength."—Miss Florence B. Alaska Generous With Its Beauty

Alaska doesn't keep all of its beauty at home. Dorothy Haley, for instance, has been sent out to tell the other beauties of her homeland. Chosen as the new tourist agent for the government's Alaskan railroad, Miss Haley is going to tell the world that Alaska is not the barren, icy stretch so many picture.

On the screen in front of the operator, Mr. Yoder explained. This device, he said, enables the operator to control the modulation of the radio current, something radio engineers have been unable to do before this time.

The invention is expected to aid greatly in the modulation of tone. At the present time, Mr. Yoder said, certain kinds of instrumental music go well, while others do not. Sudden changes from voice to instrumental music, loud to soft tones etc., produce unpleasant results.

Mr. Johnson took his A. B. degree in the University of North Dakota in 1912 and his M. S. degree in 1914. He went from the university directly to the Western Electric Laboratories.

ASKS AID FOR PRISONERS IN LIFE'S BATTLE

Major Halpin of Salvation Army. Here Today, Says Attitude of U. S. Costly

TELLS OF METHODS

"The great American spirit of fair play, which in its ultra-fairness demands an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, annually is costing this nation many thousands of dollars and is confirming each year thousands of new criminals," declared Major William Halpin, national prison secretary of the Salvation Army, who arrived here today. Major Halpin will speak at a public meeting at the Salvation Army citadel at 8 o'clock tonight. He is accompanied by Staff Captain Hickman of Minneapolis.

"Tremendous strides have been made in recent years in institutional administration," he continued. "Minnesota in particular in this respect stands near the front."

"Despite all that has been done more criminals are produced each year in penal institutions than in the slum districts of the big cities—the so-called underworld. They are produced in spite of, not as a result of, the constant vigilance of institutional forces."

"Young men, young women, children are seldom criminals when sentenced—they are just unfortunate who chanced to slip, and were caught. And who is there among us who never has slipped? They are unfortunate needing friendly advice and counsel and help and the comradeship of the morally and spiritually strong rather than the drab uniforms of the reformatory, the pick and shovel of the workhouse or the steel bars of a prison cell."

"They are not criminals—until they begin their sentence; a sentence, the practical result of which is to send them into a kind of exiles, seafarers and hardened criminals, there to learn from minds that are sick the ways of the paths which lead to shame, dishonesty, disgrace and degradation."

Where Army Aids It is here the Salvation Army, co-operating with and aided by prison authorities, begins its prison work. It is here its officers endeavor to counteract the evil influences of those with whom every jail inmate must daily come in contact. It is here that prisoner-regeneration begins.

"During the year ended September 30, 1923, nearly 1,000,000 men and women attended Salvation Army prison meetings. Many of these were hardened criminals—but many were beginners in the greatest school of crime the world ever has known. More than 73,000 of these were prayed with and advised and 10,500 acknowledged their God and before their release from prison promised to forsake their ways and companions and to lead lives of honesty and worth."

"Their sincerity is evidenced when it is known that 8,132 accepted aid from the Salvation Army upon their discharge. Of these it is safe to say that the overwhelming majority are now respected in their various communities as men and women with sufficient backbone to 'face the music' and begin all over again."

Made Worth While "They are worth-while citizens, strengthened rather than weakened by their past."

"During the year 604 individuals were paroled to The Salvation Army by the United States and State authorities from the wrong and to act accordingly. It is needless to say that this group today, scattered far and wide throughout the country, is 'making good.'"

"We Americans should not insist upon our pound of flesh. It is the most expensive way of treating a situation which admittedly is serious, and the results of the 'cure' often are more serious than the original disease."

ROAD CONDITIONS Though rough in spots, the main highway were in good condition, preceding the general snowstorm which covered the west and central portions of the State.

DOHENY FIRST EARNED FIFTY CENTS A DAY

Oil Magnate Tells Story of His Colorful Life and Rise To Great Fortune

This is the first chapter of "How I Made My Millions," the life story of E. L. Doheny, millionaire and leading figure in the Senate oil investigation.

By E. L. Doheny

(Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

To be a Doheny is to be used to trouble.

It has been that way for generations. My grandfather, Michael Doheny, was embroiled in the Irish Revolution of '48. My father, Patrick Doheny, became a political refugee.

And now I find myself facing trouble of another kind. But I shall get out of it just as honorably as did they.

My dad was only 16 when he was forced to flee. He went to Canada and became a seal fisher in Baffin's Bay. It was arduous work, but my father stuck to it for ten years.

After his marriage to a St. Johns school teacher, he went to Wisconsin. To test an eye, suffered other injuries, and had to settle down to peaceful gardening.

I was born in 1856 at Fond du Lac, a saw-mill town in those days. There were several children in the family, but there is only one left now.

When I heard that my brother, a year and a half my senior, was to go to school I wanted to go, too. At first there were some objections, but then my father said I could learn to talk there—if nothing else—and, at any rate, I would be out of the way at home.

So they let me go, although I was only three years and four months old.

"Red Squirrel" the teacher called me, for I was a little shaver with a scowl, and kept hopping around most of the time.

The teachers said I was poetically inclined, had a good memory, was good at mathematics, but poor at chemistry—although a knowledge of the last became of the greatest importance in my later work.

After school hours I always found something to do. My dad saw to that.

I got a job in a saw mill during the summer vacation when I was 13. My special work was running a knot-saw, for which service I got 65 cents a day—and a scar on my right hand. Only a bit of luck prevented me from losing several fingers.

I surely was proud of my injury. It put me in the class with the other boys of the town who had been hurt in their work—and there were many of them.

The next summer one of the first sugar beet factories in America was sprung at Fond du Lac. I got a job in the fields. The man in charge was like a real overseer, for he drove us boys like so many slaves. Down the long rows of beets we went, 50 or 60 in a line, working our hoed weeding. We had to work quickly, or else the lads behind would close in and prod us with their hoed.

For all this each of us received 50 cents a day.

But life was too pleasant to let a hard-driving overseer spoil it. We were all veritable Huck Finns—swimming, fishing, getting into mischief. When we had a fence to paint, we invariably connived to make the other fellow do it.

Hardly a month went by during the summer months without some boy drowning. The water was deep, and the cutting logs made it treacherous. But that made the sport more alluring.

Louis Pelletier was my side-kick in those days. I don't know what happened to him later, for soon came a parting of the ways.

I had a dream of going west! (In the next article Doheny will tell how he spurned a career as a priest to go west.)

DIFFICULT TO SHAVE IN AIRPLANE

Manila, April 1.—The difficulties of shaving in an airplane while flying more than 2,000 feet above the earth were experienced recently by Major A. S. Fletcher of the Philippine Scouts. Three United States army airplanes which had been sent to Zamboanga to take part in the annual carnival were about to take off for Manila when Major Fletcher decided to make the trip. He needed a shave badly. There was no time for it in his quarters so he took his shaving outfit with him.

Using water from his canteen he made his father and when he was ready to apply it the airplane had ascended so high that the water faded from his face in the gale as fast as it was put on. However, Major Fletcher persevered and when he arrived at Manila showed evidence of having had a fairly good shave.

Bismarck Boys

Richolt and St. Mary's win in Saturday's basketball games for the F. A. Knowles shield.

On last weeks play Wm. Moore was considered to be the best team in the league and while the Wm. Moore supporters expected a hard game with the east Enders they felt sure that the final score would be in their favor and were little prepared for the drubbing which their favorites received. Richolt on the other hand planned for the toughest game of the season and worked accordingly. The result was the best game of the season. The first half ended six to four, neither having much advantage over the other. Gobel didn't start in the second period and in quick succession Richolt netted three baskets. Captain Ben hung out the distress signal and Gobel came tearing to the rescue but it was too late, the east enders smothered the boys from capitol hill, scoring nine field goals and two foul shots for twenty points while the Bill Moore boys scored one field goal and five foul shots for seven points.

The teams and their scoring: Richolt 20 points; St. Mary's 14, Elmer Benser 0, Gord Landers (captain) 1, Fred Landers 5, Ted Anderson 0, Floyd Sunderland 0.

Wm. Moore 7 points; Ben Jacobson, (captain) 2, Ray Gobel 2, Ralph Stenshoel 2, Hank Brown 0, Bus Rosson 0, Hy Scroggins 0.

In the second game the St. Mary's took the freshmen into camp to the tune of 25 to 3. The Saints have hit their stride and will give a good account of themselves in future games. Although the freshmen were sadly weakened through the absence of El Watkins and the crippled McGettigan, they fought gamely on to the bitter end. The teams were: St. Mary's 25; Mat Hummel 15, Stan Wycieklna 8, Pete Balser 2, John Roehrick 0, Andy Hummel 0. Referee: Ed Alfson, Jim Olson and Shephard.

CONTENT

Sweet are the thoughts that savor of content—
The quiet mind is richer than a crown;
Sweet are the nights in careless slumber spent—
The poor estate scorns fortune's angry frown:
Such sweet content, such minds, such sleep, such bliss
Beggars enjoy, when princes oft do miss.

The homely house that harbors quiet rest,
The cottage that affords no pride or care,
The mean that greets with country music best,
The sweet consort of mirth and music's fare,
Obscured life sets down a type of bliss:
A mind content both crown and kingdom is.

LETTER FROM RUTH ELLINGTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

Although I know, dear, that you are coming home Saturday, there are a few things I want you to know before you see Jack.

In the first place, if I were you, now that Karl is going to marry Alice, I would tell Jack all about the pearls. In the second place, I believe I would tell him you are a half owner in my business, and in the third place—well, on second thought, I do not think I'll say anything about the third place, for that place is where only you and Jack can meet and you do not want a third person even to suggest the meeting.

Sometimes I think, Leslie that the reason why married people are not happier is because they keep so much from each other. If one lives with another person all the time, if two people must be chained together even if those bonds be the bonds of matrimony, I believe they should either be absolute strangers, if that can be done, or the complete one that marriage is supposed to make of two people.

I had a long talk the other day with your husband, Leslie. I really like him very much, and I honestly believe if you two people would be perfectly honest with one another, you would be the happiest people on earth. Really and truly I do not think either of you has anything that matters much concealed. Jack has been an exemplary husband, has he not? But you go on thinking that the other is not as broad minded, as sympathetic or as understanding as you yourself are, and that's the trouble.

I'm glad you went to see Jack's mother. I knew you had only to go there to make the conquest of her. Leslie, I wonder if you know that all women like you. I do not believe you have the same attraction for all men, but when a man does prefer you his friendship I am sure he craves very much for you.

By the way, I have met your friend and Jack's secretary, Mrs. Atherton. When I first saw her I didn't think she was even good looking, but I have come to the conclusion that she is an odd person, but perhaps more interesting than good looking. She can never ever frank, yet I have a feeling that she never tells anything she doesn't want to tell. That's the cleverest kind of a clever woman, Leslie.

The other evening she was a part of a party at one of the restaurants and I must say that with her gorgeous red hair bobbed and plastered down all over her head, and her simple little black six-piece dress which showed arms of the peculiar whiteness that always goes with the skin of a red head, with her brown eyes sparkling with red and blue, she was the most ridiculous looking woman in the room.

Jack, who was there with a party of men, evidently called the attention of his party to her, for before the evening was over the whole four men which made up Jack's party had

DO YOU BELIEVE IN LUCK?

A monkey almost strangled Cromwell to death when he was a baby in the cradle. For a few moments, until he was discovered and driven away, that ape held the destiny of nations in his hairy paws. How do you explain it? Luck? A matter of chance?

Important events of the world and our own lives often hinge on such petty little details that an observer is baffled to explain.

Napoleon might have won Waterloo if a rain had not mired his artillery.

Mohammed, pursued by enemies, hid in a cave in Mount Shur. A spider promptly spun a web across the cave's entrance. Seeing the web, the pursuers reasoned that no one could have entered without breaking the silken threads. They passed on. Mohammed escaped. That spider determined the religious belief of billions of people later. The same cave-spiderweb story, by the way, is told about other historical characters—borrowed from Mohammed.

If Cleopatra's nose had been shorter, the condition of the world would have been different. So wrote Pascal in his epigrams. Her beauty made her one of the most powerful women that ever lived.

A small boy in church, watching a chandelier swaying back and forth, conceived the idea of the pendulum.

Luther might have been a lawyer if a terrific rainstorm had not prevented him from keeping an appointment with a friend.

Giotto, one of the early Florentine painters, might have continued a shepherd boy if a sheep drawn by him on a stone had not happened to attract the attention of a great artist, Cimabue, who fired Giotto with ambition.

Nearly everybody believes in luck. If they didn't, games of chance like cards would be entirely displaced by games of skill like chess. Ambition is kept alive and nurtured by hope. And hope is lured on by a belief, whether admitted or denied, that luck will bring opportunity and fortune.

Luck, after all, is simply the popular way of expressing success or failure under the scientific laws of chance or probabilities. These laws are mathematical. Gamblers use them. Insurance rates are based on them.

But most of us cannot accept chance as a satisfactory explanation of such crucial incidents as baby Cromwell escaping death at the monkey's hands. Some prefer to believe in fatalism. Others are confident that the guiding hand of Providence is back of it all.

QUICKSAND

General Pershing has been writing a history of the World War. His book, begun during his recent seclusion in France, covers the period between America's plunging into the conflict and the armistice. The book should be what serious-minded people call "a valuable contribution."

The final history of the World War will tell in a few hundred words. By the year 4000 the war will have become legendary, in the nature of a myth. Time is quicksand. Chinese armies once conquered Asia and most of Europe. Their troops are estimated as many as 29 millions. But how much space does history give them after the lapse of centuries?

PERPETUAL

The Abbe Moreaux, French scientist, swings his telescope and finds a swirl of "star dust" so far away that it takes a million years for its light to reach us.

What the Abbe saw, therefore, was the light that left the nebula a million years ago. Another million years must pass before earthlings with their telescopes will be able to see what that far-off place is like today. If you were as far from the earth as light travels in 109 years, and had a powerful enough telescope, you'd now be looking down here and watching the Battle of Waterloo. Light takes moving pictures of everything, carries them on through space forever.

DUE

Every one's talking about the rapid increase in traffic congestion, due to tremendous auto production. Any one with reasonably far vision can see the time close at hand when traffic in cities will be congested to snail's pace unless double-decked streets are built.

The other solution would be for airplanes to be made cheap and fool-proof, diverting traffic to the air. This seems the more logical development to expect. Whenever humanity needs anything badly enough, some one comes forward with it. That will be the way with flying flivvers.

HOAX

Fluctuations in foreign trade often deceive when they are figured in money instead of physical volume. It's now known that, instead of building up an enormous export trade during the war, we really were building up the prices instead of actual sales.

For instance, final estimates show that rubber imported into our country in December averaged 25 cents a pound, compared with 15 cents in December, 1922. It's evident, how this two-thirds gain in prices shows up deceptively in complete figures on imports.

BEAR

Russia was too optimistic in its claims about revival of its foreign trade. Exports and imports last year totaled only 147 million dollars (figured in our money), compared with 298 millions the year before.

In 1850 Russia's foreign trade was 150 millions, or 3 millions larger than in 1923. It grew to 1500 millions in 1912. Ostracized politically by most of the rest of the world, her slump in foreign trade is easy to understand.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of the Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE JENNINGS STORY ABOUT HAMON

Al Jennings, reformed train robber of Oklahoma, has told his story to the Senate committee which is investigating the Fall-Bohony-Sinclair oil reserve affair. According to Al, it cost Jake Hamon, now dead, $1,000,000 when Warren G. Harding, now dead, was nominated for the presidency in Chicago, and of this sum, we are informed, Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, now dead, received $250,000. Hamon's lawyer received $25,000 and W. H. Hays, a like amount.

In return for his million dollars, says Al, Hamon was not only to be Secretary of the Interior, but he was to be rewarded with a generous piece of pie in the form of usufruct of public lands. Hamon, he says, told him all this in Chicago at the time of the national Republican convention in 1920. From buying his way to a portfolio in the Cabinet, Hamon, according to the story, was going to buy his way later into the presidency and "become the biggest man in the United States."

Nobody, so far as we know, thinks of Jake Hamon as approximating anywhere near the ideal citizen, but it is hard to believe that Hamon was the blooming idiot Jennings makes him out. If the Jennings story is a mistaken interpretation of things Hamon may have said to Jennings, why that is that, and if it is literally true as related on the witness stand, there is no other conclusion than that Hamon was so afflicted with the exaggerated ego that he was not responsible for what he said.

Hamon was quoted as saying it "cost him like hell to get the New York delegation" and quite a bit of money to carry Oklahoma for Harding. This is the first statement or even intimation that the New York delegation of 58 members was a purchasable commodity.

It will probably be a surprise to such men as Nathan L. Miller, James W. Wadsworth, Jr., William Calder, William Boyce Thompson, Chauncey M. Dewey, Henry W. Taft, Henry L. Stimson, Herbert Parsons, Charles S. Whitman, Ogden L. Mills, Nicholas Murray Butler, Charles D. Hills, Jules S. Bache, Isaac Siegel, Edward M. Morgan and William L. Ward, all of whom were members of the New York delegation. In this list are two former governors of New York, two United States senators, one university president, one former member of the Cabinet, one near relative of a former President, one wealthy newspaper editor, one former postmaster of New York city and several men of sizable fortunes who needed none of Jake Hamon's money to keep the wolf from the door.

How or when Senator Penrose got the $25,000 does not appear from the testimony. Having pressed on, he can't explain. He didn't go to the Chicago convention, being confined to his Pennsylvania home by a serious illness.

If Jake Hamon was such a blabber as Jennings' story suggests, it is quite remarkable that somebody did not blow the lid off in the campaign of 1920 and start things going then instead of waiting for nearly four years. Hamon was a man of moral obliquity, but he was so covert about his private life that comparatively few people of Oklahoma knew about this phase of his life.

Hamon money may have helped carry Oklahoma for Harding, but Hamon showed no interest in the senatorial or state election, and still the state chose a Republican for the senatorship and elected a House of Representatives in the state, a majority of which was Republican.

A man as successful in business as Hamon usually knows what to do with his tongue. If in politics he was cured with egomania, much is explained by that simple fact.—Minneapolis Tribune.

MUSOLINI'S DEEDS

Premier Mussolini has made his first speech of the electoral campaign. He says he will make no other speech until the votes are counted. He tells the Italian people that Fascism has saved Italy. It has.

It has prevented a communist revolution. It has ended the strikes. It has reformed the tax system. It has put the people back to work. It has strengthened the lira.

It has done all the things which every sensible man in the country knew should be done, but which all the sensible men in the country put together were unable to do because the political machinery was not responsive to their needs.

No matter which lever they pulled, they could not get the right results. No matter for whom they voted, they could never get a parliament that would act sensibly. The parliamentary situation in Rome was even more scrambled than the congressional situation in Washington.

The people were so dissatisfied that they were on the verge of a communist revolution. Mussolini forestalled that with a Fascist revolution, which almost instantly calmed the support of the people. Mussolini then did the things that all the sensible men wanted done. That's why Italy has made such remarkable progress in the last year and a half as to gain the world's admiration.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Come in!" cried Mister Fuzz Wuzz to the Twins, "somebody arrived in Doo-funny Land yesterday, and I'm going to see who it is. They say it's a lady."

So away went the three of them to call on the new arrival.

She was keeping house in an old candy box with a hinge lid that did nicely for a front door and when the visitors knocked she answered at once.

"How'd' do," she said sweetly. "Mister Fuzz Wuzz hospitably, 'Welcome to Doo-funny Land! I do hope you will like us.'"

"I'm sure I shall. It will be a nice change," remarked the new lady. "I've been sitting on a mountain-piece for nearly a year, and although the family I lived with were very kind, I did get sick of always sticking in one place and never being moved except to be dusted."

"Did you ever happen to know if a man who—" began Nancy, but Mister Fuzz Wuzz stopped her. "Sh! Wait a bit," he whispered.

"Would you mind telling us your story?" asked Mister Fuzz Wuzz, politely.

"Oh, no," smiled the dancer. "Do sit down and I'll begin at once. I was a favor at a birthday party. It was a lovely party—all pink and white—even the white birthday cake was covered with pink candles, and I matched perfectly. I was set at a place as a favor, and right beside me was a nice little man who nodded and nodded at me in such a friendly fashion that I was quite fascinated."

"Why, that was—" began Nick, but Mister Fuzz Wuzz stopped him. "Wait a bit," he said. "Not so fast. Please go on, madam!"

"Well, a dreadful thing happened," sighed the dancer. "A little boy sat down at the place next to mine and right before my eyes, he pulled my new friend's head off. I was so shocked I fainted dead away right in a plate of ice cream, and even when I was recovered I was too nervous to look at him again."

"Is that all?" asked Nancy.

"Yes, just about. I belonged to a little girl who took me home, and as I said, I was treated kindly, but as time went on I faded and lost my beauty. Besides my legs and feet which are made of wire, got all bent out of shape. I am no longer graceful. In plain words, I have lost my looks."

"I can fix you if you like," said Nancy.

"It isn't a bit of use," sighed the little dancer. "The only friend I ever cared for was killed. But if you like, you may try. But my dancing days are over."

Mister Fuzz Wuzz and the children took the little lady with them when they left, and Nancy was as good as her word—she fixed her up like new.

The next thing they did was to take her to the house of Hinky Dinky, the nice little man who nodded his head all the time.

"Oh, oh, oh! Are you alive?" cried the little dancer joyously when she saw him. "I thought the little boy pulled your head off and that you were dead."

"I was made that way," nodded Hinky Dinky happily, "and if you will marry me, you can take my head off whenever you like."

"Of course I will," said the little dancer. "I mean marry you." (To Be Continued.) (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

BASEBALL FANS TO TRAIN

MAY LEARN SECRETS OF ENJOYING GAMES

While covering the world series last year this expert editor decided that the universe needed was training for baseball fans.

The secret was hard. Baseball seats always are hard. If we had practiced sitting on the floor at home, instead of using a chair, we would not have noticed the hard seats.

The men on either side of us always ran out of matches by the fifth inning. If we had practiced carrying matches we would not have had to ask these men for them and they would not have run out.

By the seventh inning we were trying to think up new names to call the umpire. A list of strong but respectable cuss words in our pocket would have made it the lucky seventh for us.

These are only a few hints. Watch the sport page of Tom Sims Newspaper in the future for even more startling baseball fan training secrets, if we can think of any.

It is far more glamorous."

"That is because you don't look in the eye," said Claverling, smiling down on her. "You really don't know it half as well, and endow it with all sorts of mysterious attributes. I think I prefer the moon, because it is imitable. You can

Washington, April 1.—Garden week, the second national event of its kind, has been set for April 20 to 26 by the general federation of women's clubs. Church and motion pictures will contribute to the effort of the campaign.

Mrs. John D. Sherman, chairman of the department of applied education of the federation, who has been nominated by Colorado, her home state for the presidency of the federation at the bi-annual election in Los Angeles in June, has announced the endorsement of the movement by President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover, and that the Bureau of Education has asked schools to emphasize the work in their study on Wednesday.

Claverling and Mary walked to another gorge he knew of and sat for hours among boulders and ferns on the brink of the stream, and surrounded by the maples with their quietly rustling leaves.

When they returned, Miss Darling, attired in ferns, was executing what she called the wood-nymph's dance, and Todd and Minor were capering about her making horrible faces and pretending to be satyrs. The rest were keeping time with hands and feet. All had agreed that not a letter nor a newspaper should be brought to the camp during their eight days' absence from civilization. Freedom should be complete. It seemed to Claverling that the expression of every fate had changed. They all wore the somewhat fixed and dreamy look one unconsciously assumes "in the woods." It was only a few moments before the onlookers had joined hands and were dancing around the central figures; chanting softly; closing in on them; retreating; turning suddenly to dance with one another. . . . but with a curious restraint as if they were reviving some old classic of the forest and were afraid of abandonment. Only Mr. Dinwiddle, a smile half-puzzled, half-cynical, in his eyes, remained a spectator. They swayed rhythmically, like tides, the chanting was very low and measured, the faces rapt. Even Todd and Minor looked excited. Impossible to imagine they had ever been Sophisticates. They were creatures of the woods, renegades for a time, perhaps, but the woods had claimed them.

Then Mr. Dinwiddle did an impish thing. He inserted a disk in the victrola, and at once they began to jazz, hardly conscious of the transition.

"I'm sure it must be frayed at the edges and hollow at the core. And when it is in the three-quarters it looks exactly like a fish that has lost its platter."

"If you continue to insult the moon, I shall take you back to camp and ask Minor to teach you how to jazz."

"I love the moon," said Mary contentedly, and pushing a cushion between her head and the sharp edge of the seat, "I'd like to stay out all night."

They continued to talk nonsense for a while and then fell silent. When the boat was almost at the head of the lake Claverling turned it into a long water lane where the maples met overhead and the low soft leaves kept up a continual whispering. It was as dark as a tunnel, but he knew every inch of the way and presently shot out into another lake, small enough for its shores to be sharply outlined under the full light of the moon, which appeared to have poised itself directly overhead.

Here it was less silent than on the larger lake. There was a chorus of frogs among the lily pads, an owl hooted wistfully in the forest, and they heard an angry snort from the underbrush, followed by a trampling retreat.

"I fancy if we had lingered quietly in that passage we should have seen deer drinking from that patch of sward over there," said Claverling. "But I was not thinking of deer."

"What were you thinking of?"

"Why—you—in a way, I suppose. It was thinking at all. I was merely filled with a vast content. God! I have found more than I ever dreamed any man could imagine he wanted. Vastly more than any man's desires. It is an astonishing thing for a man to be able to say."

Mary sat up suddenly. "Be careful. A little superstition is a good thing to keep in one's bag of precautions."

"I feel good enough to disdain it. Of course I may be struck by lightning tomorrow, or the car may turn turtle when we go down to be married, but I refuse to contemplate anything of the sort. I feel as arrogant as that moon up there, who may have all the gods inside him, and do not mind proclaiming aloud that earth is heaven."

"Well—it is." She was not superstitious herself, but she was suddenly invaded by a sinister inexplicable fear, and smiled the more brightly to conceal it. But she lowered her eyelids and glanced hastily about her, wondering if an enemy could be hiding in those dark woods. She was not conscious of possessing enemies; venomous enough to assassinate her, but she knew little of Claverling's life after all, and he was the sort of man who must inspire hate as well as love. . . . danger suddenly was lurking somewhere. . . . It seemed to wash against her brain, carrying its message. . . . But there were no wild beasts in the Adirondacks, nor even reptiles. . . . Nor a sound. The owl had given up his attempt to entice his lady out for a rendezvous and the frogs had passed for breath. There was not the faintest rustle in the forest except those eternally whispering leaves and the faint surging tide in the tree-tops. That ugly invading fear was still in her eyes as she met his.

"What is the matter?" he asked. "You look frightened."

"I am a little—I have a curious feeling of uneasiness—as if something were going to happen."

"Out of the depths of the hollow gloom. On her soul's bare sands she heard it boom."

he quoted lightly. "I fancy when one is too happy, the jealous gods run the quicksilver of our little spiritual barometers down for a moment, merely to remind us that we are mortals after all."

The shadow on her face lifted, and she smiled into his ardent eyes.

Bismarck Boys

Richolt and St. Mary's win in Saturday's basketball games for the F. A. Knowles shield.

On last weeks play Wm. Moore was considered to be the best team in the league and while the Wm. Moore supporters expected a hard game with the east Enders they felt sure that the final score would be in their favor and were little prepared for the drubbing which their favorites received. Richolt on the other hand planned for the toughest game of the season and worked accordingly. The result was the best game of the season. The first half ended six to four, neither having much advantage over the other. Gobel didn't start in the second period and in quick succession Richolt netted three baskets. Captain Ben hung out the distress signal and Gobel came tearing to the rescue but it was too late, the east Enders smothered the boys from capitol hill, scoring nine field goals and two foul shots for twenty points while the Bill Moore boys scored one field goal and five foul shots for seven points.

The teams and their scoring: Richolt 20 points; St. Mary's 14. Elmer Benser 0, Gord Landers (captain) 1, Fred Landers 5, Ted Anderson 0, Floyd Sunderland 0.

Wm. Moore 7 points; Ben Jacobson (captain) 2, Ray Gobel 2, Ralph Stenshoel 2, Hank Brown 0, Bus Rosson 0, Hy Scroggins 0.

In the second game the St. Mary's took the freshmen into camp to the tune of 25 to 3. The Saints have hit their stride and will give a good account of themselves in future games. Although the freshmen were sadly weakened through the absence of El Watkins and the crippled McGettigan, they fought gamely on to the bitter end. The teams were: St. Mary's 25; Mat Hummel 15, Stan Wyciskala 8, Pete Balser 2, John Roehrick 0, Andy Hummel 0. Referee: Ed Alfson, Jim Olson and Shephard.

Sweet are the thoughts that savor of content—

The quiet mind is richer than a crown;

Sweet are the nights in careless slumber spent—

The poor estate scorns fortune's angry frown:

Such sweet content, such minds, such sleep, such bliss

Beggars enjoy, when princes oft do miss.

The homely house that harbors quiet rest,

The cottage that affords no pride or care,

The mean that greets with country music best,

The sweet consort of mirth and music's fare,

Obscured life sets down a type of bliss:

A mind content both crown and kingdom is.

LETTER FROM RUTH ELLINGTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

Although I know, dear, that you are coming home Saturday, there are a few things I want you to know before you see Jack.

In the first place, if I were you, now that Karl is going to marry Alice, I would tell Jack all about the pearls. In the second place, I believe I would tell him you are a half owner in my business, and in the third place—well, on second thought, I do not think I'll say anything about the third place, for that place is where only you and Jack can meet and you do not want a third person even to suggest the meeting.

Sometimes I think, Leslie, that the reason why married people are not happier is because they keep so much from each other. If one lives with another person all the time, if two people must be chained together even if those bonds be the bonds of matrimony, I believe they should either be absolute strangers, if that can be done, or the complete one that marriage is supposed to make of two people.

I had a long talk the other day with your husband, Leslie. I really like him very much, and I honestly believe if you two people would be perfectly honest with one another, you would be the happiest people on earth. Really and truly I do not think either of you has anything that matters much concealed. Jack has been an exemplary husband, has he not? But you go on thinking that the other is not as broad minded, as sympathetic or as understanding as you yourself are, and that's the trouble.

I'm glad you went to see Jack's mother. I knew you had only to go there to make the conquest of her. Leslie, I wonder if you know that all women like you. I do not believe you have the same attraction for all men, but when a man does prefer you his friendship I am sure he cares very much for you.

By the way, I have met your friend and Jack's secretary, Mrs. Atherton. When I first saw her I didn't think she was even good looking, but I have come to the conclusion that she has an odd personality perhaps more fascinating than good looks. She seems excessively frank, yet I have a feeling that she never tells anything she doesn't want to tell. That's the cleverest kind of a clever woman, Leslie.

I wish when you return you would give her a special invitation to come to your house some evening when you know Jack is going to be away, and I will drop in. She rather piques my curiosity. Did you tell me you used to go to school together, and that she had had a great smashup in her married life?

The other evening she was a member of a party at one of the restaurants, and I must say that with her gorgeous red hair bobbed and plastered down all over her head, and her simple little black sleeveless dress which showed arms of the peculiar whiteness that always goes with the skin of a red head, with her brown eyes sparkling with red-dish gleams, she was the most individual looking woman in the room. Jack, who was there with a party of men, evidently called the attention of his party to her, for before the evening was over the whole four men which made up Jack's party had

Following the 16 percent dividend of the Bank of Ireland, the Munster and Leinster Bank has paid a 20 percent dividend, and the National Bank has increased its dividend from 12 percent to 13. The net profits of all the banks for the year were 1,340,287 pounds, or nearly nine percent in excess of those for 1922.

PIONEERS TELL OF EFFORTS TO BETTER HOMES

Writers, in Will Company Prize Contest, Write of Planting Trees Years Ago

Mrs. J. A. Burgum of Arthur has been awarded first prize in a contest conducted by O. H. Will and Co., to ascertain the oldest living customers of the firm. Second place went to Hanna Mackin Latson of Bismarck, and two third prizes to Mrs. W. J. Lewis of Dickey, N. D., and Mrs. A. H. Wheeler of Lambert, Montana, and fourth place to Mrs. C. S. Langdon of Dickinson.

Many interesting letters were received after the announcement in the 42nd annual catalogue of the seed house that it would offer prizes to oldest customers of $5, $3, $2 and $1 in trade, respectively.

Mrs. Burgum wrote that forty years or more ago as a small girl just starting to school in Bismarck her mother was Mrs. Linda W. Slaughter. She received a weekly reward of five cents and went straight to a greenhouse conducted by Oscar Will on Fourth street and invested it in geranium slips in a little red pot. She said something always happened to them. One day would knock the little pot off the window sill or the plants wouldn't live without water—but she would go right back next week when she got her five cents allowance and buy another. Her mother also ordered trees from the firm for a claim in Eckland township, she wrote.

Hanna Mackin Latson, winner of second prize, headed her article with the quotation, "The groves were God's first Temples."

"We whispered this to our homestead hearts when we located on a homestead in Traverse county, Minnesota, 45 years ago," she wrote. "More than 25 miles from a railroad; no church nor school nor postoffice nor store, just the howling wilderness like pictures in the old geographies of polar regions, not a tree or shrub to relieve the depressing monotony."

"It was the following spring we sent to Oscar H. Will for cuttings and seedlings to plant with our corn and the few disgruntled neighbors."

IT WAS ALMOST AN INVITATION TO A FIRE

The engineer found a wooden waste barrel filled with oily rags and bits of wood. He called it "an invitation to a fire."

assured us neither trees nor corn would ever amount to anything. "Both grew with tropical rapidity and the cornstalks were left to hold the winter snows and insure moisture. We added to the average each season and for 22 years we lived on the homestead, but we could not prove up on our beautiful location because of indemnity litigation. "A year ago, I visited the spot and the thought of bygone years came mournfully back to me and the giant trees we had planted seemed close against the sky, reaching out their everlasting arms as if it might be a waving signal that all is well from the pioneer seedman who originated the enterprise by which they came into being."

Mrs. Mackin Latson is the mother of Mrs. D. T. Owens of this city and is past 74 years of age and settled in Traverse county, Minn. about 1882 near Wheaton.

Mrs. A. H. Wheeler of Lambert, Montana, wrote that she got seed back in 1885 from the Will Company on their preemption in South Dakota. She later sent the firm orders from Minnesota and Saskatchewan, she wrote.

Children make constipation a habit—

relieve them with Kellogg's Bran

Children punish themselves terribly by ignoring nature's demands. They bring constipation upon themselves. They invite the many other diseases which can be traced to constipation. Immediate steps should be taken to rid them and keep them free from this disease.

It takes ALL bran to be 100 per cent effective. That's what Kellogg's is—ALL bran. That is why doctors everywhere recommend Kellogg's. That is why Kellogg's Bran carries a money-back guarantee to bring permanent relief, if eaten regularly, in the most chronic cases of constipation.

That is why Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumled, has brought glorious glowing health to thousands—because it is ALL bran.

No matter how long one has suffered with constipation, Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief IF EATEN EVERY DAY—at least two tablespoonsfuls—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Kellogg's Bran is delicious. It has a crisp, nut-like flavor that simply delights the taste. It is a wonderful surprise if one has been used to ordinary, unpalatable brans.

There are many ways to serve Kellogg's Bran. Eat it with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Look for the recipes on every package and try it in muffins, bread, griddle cakes, etc.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumled, is made in Battle Creek and is sold by grocers everywhere. It is served by the leading hotels and clubs.

THE MOTORIST buys gasoline at frequent intervals and pays cash for it, because the unit of purchase is small.

For this reason the price of gasoline is ever-present in his mind.

But, in fairness, the price of gasoline should be considered in relation to other fixed charges incident to the operation of his automobile.

Petroleum Age, in its issue of February

1, 1924, states that "reliable figures obtained in the study of the operation of of automobiles in oil field service between

July, 1922, and July, 1923, shows that the average cost per mile for cars ranging in price from $400.00 to $1,400.00 each was 10c. During that period approximately 22c per gallon was paid for gasoline."

Computing the average mileage at 15 miles per gallon it is shown that out of a mileage cost of 10c gasoline represented less than 1 1/2c. In other words the 1 1/2c wags the 8 1/2c, and the 1 1/2c covers the hazard of drilling and bringing the crude oil above ground—its transportation to the refinery—storage—refining—maintenance of the refineries—transporting of gasoline—bulk storage depots—delivery system, including tank wagons and service stations—cost of labor—and a fair and reasonable profit.

If the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and others engaged in the petroleum industry had not expended millions in experiment and research, which has resulted in taking from crude petroleum scores of other products, the present low price of gasoline could not be maintained.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), because of its advanced work in refining petroleum, has been able to recover these other products without in any way affecting the quality of the gasoline.

In this way the operations of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) accrue to the advantage of the consumer in keeping the price of gasoline down to a point where the man of modest means can enjoy the pleasures of motoring without bearing a burdensome charge for fuel to propel his car.

Gasoline, in relation to the service it renders, is one of the cheapest commodities yet discovered.

Mrs. C. S. Langdon of Dickinson wrote that her husband took a tree claim and bought cuttings and tree seeds from the concern about 1887. The many letters received testified to the efforts of the pioneers to improve the beauty of their homesteads through planting of trees, shrubs and flowers, as well as to plant seeds in their fields.
